

JAN. 17/58.

FLEET STREET, E.C.4

Revells

WATCH OUR WINDOWS

for

New

Spring Styles

HIGH STREET

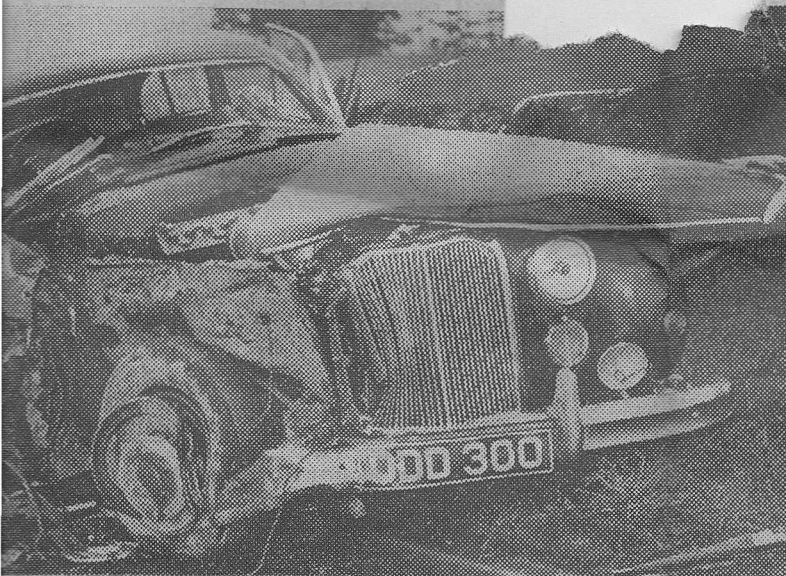

Tel. 205

58

& 19

PRICE FOURPENCE

ONEL DANIELS' WRE

OTHER JAGUAR

Inquest Opens At Derby

AN inquest on Mr. Joseph Lionel Daniels, the well-known local industrialist and active worker for many good causes, opened at Derby, on Friday, when evidence of identification was taken. It was then adjourned until a date to be fixed.

Mr. Daniels, whose home is at Overden, Watledge, Nailsworth, Stroud, died on Thursday in Derbyshire Royal Infirmary, after being involved in a motoring accident earlier in the day.

News that Mr. Daniels had been involved in a serious accident reached Stroud on Thursday afternoon. In the evening came the information that

£21 16s. 9d. For A Litter Bin

THE price that the County Council pays for litter bins was stated to be a waste of the ratepayers' money at a meeting of Painswick Parish Council on Monday.

The clerk, Mr. T. M. Gidlow, had asked the County Council for additional litter bins for the parish, and there had been none in stock. He then contacted the firm which supplied the County Council with bins and was told that they were £21 16s. 9d. each! Another firm quoted £4 12s. 6d. for bins.

The Parish Council decided to accept the lower priced bins which were smaller than the others and had no lids.

It was felt by the Council that the purchasing of the higher priced bins by the County Council was a waste of ratepayers' money, and that the price was "ridiculous."

The clerk reported that the County Council had approved the suggestion that Edge should be a separate ward, with its own councillor. This brings the total wards in the parish to four, the others being Painswick, Sheepscombe and Slad.

In response to a request from the Parish Council, the Bristol Omnibus Company have instituted a service from Gloucester to Painswick at 6 p.m., returning at 6.30. The new service took effect from January 6.

NEW SHELTER

A new bus shelter is to be erected on the triangle of grass at the junction of the Cheltenham and Sheepscombe roads. The work will be undertaken by Messrs. Burdocks and the price, after a grant has been received, will be £136.

The Post Office reported that a new telephone kiosk, in Cotswold type grey with red glazing bars, is to be erected in New Street.

Estimates for the forthcoming financial year were read, and it was decided to precept for a 2d. rate.

New House For Police Superintendent

The County Council has given approval to a new lease being entered into incorporating increased rents in respect of eight houses, occupied by the police, and rented from Stroud U.D.C. This action has been taken following the recent increase in the rents of Council houses in the Stroud urban area.

Here & There

The Church Institute is a valuable asset to the Church, but a costly building to maintain, writes the Vicar, Rev. A. F. Martin, in his magazine. The following figures seem to prove the point: £700 per annum to run the Institute, or £13 10s a week, or £1 18s a day.

Living temporarily at Hyde, Chalford, is Mr. Robert Noel Dean, recently appointed assistant education officer for Gloucester.

Relics of St. James Theatre, London, in the form of red plush tip-up seats, were in use for the first time in the gallery of the Cotswold Playhouse, Parliament Street, on Saturday, when the Players produced "Mansfield Park."

There was an attendance of 26 at the meeting of Bisley Parochial Church Council held at Eastcombe last week when it was announced that Major E. Sotham would be unable to continue as Vicar's warden owing to ill-health.

Mr. G. W. Powell, chairman of Stroud Rural District Council presided at the meeting of the Cheltenham Local Committee of the South Western Gas Consultative Council on Friday, when he paid tribute to the late Alderman H. T. Bush, who was chairman of the committee at the time of his death.

Inside stonework of the new St. George's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Southwark, which is nearing completion and is due to be reopened on July 4, is in biscuit-coloured Painswick stone. The Cathedral was the only one in the Home Counties destroyed by fire in the blitz.

The infant daughter of the Rev. T. F. and the Hon. Mrs. Taylor was christened on Saturday at Chalford Church. The Archdeacon of Gloucester officiated and the child was named Helen Mary. The godparents are Dr. K. M. Briggs, the Hon. Mrs. N. P. Piercy and the Rev. Kenneth Jarvis, for whom Lord Piercy stood proxy.

A New Year's message to the Royal Family, in the form of a short poem entitled "In the Fullness of Time," was forwarded to Buckingham Palace by Mr. Basil H. Hyett, of 3 Elm Terrace, Foxmoor Lane, Ebley. He has received an acknowledgement from the Queen's Private

EDUCATION TO

ST £6,817,130

Education ing to £503,045 could be deducted.

OTHER JAGUAR

Inquest Opens At Derby

AN inquest on Mr. Joseph Lionel Daniels, the well-known local industrialist and active worker for many good causes, opened at Derby, on Friday, when evidence of identification was taken. It was then adjourned until a date to be fixed.

Mr. Daniels, whose home is at Overden, Watledge, Nailsworth, Stroud, died on Thursday in Derbyshire Royal Infirmary, after being involved in a motoring accident earlier in the day.

News that Mr. Daniels had been involved in a serious accident reached Stroud on Thursday afternoon. In the evening came the information that he had died but the news did not circulate widely until Friday, having appeared in the later editions of the "Stroud News and Journal."

UNBELIEVABLE

The effect was stunning. Many people could hardly believe it was true because, to all who knew him, the chief characteristic of Mr. Daniels was his brimming vitality. He was 50 when he died.

Briefly the facts of the fatal head-on crash between two Jaguar cars which resulted in Mr. Daniels' death are these:—

He was on a business trip to Huddersfield, having left his home the morning before, and with him, as his passengers, were Mr. George Townsend (52), of the Britannia Inn, Nailsworth, who is associated with the firm of Prat-Daniel (Stanmore) Ltd., a subsidiary of Messrs. T. H. and J. Daniels, and Mr. Phillip Nelson (42), of Merrydown, Oxted, Surrey, another business associate.

HEAD-ON COLLISION

Just outside the entrance to St. Mary's Nursing Home, Ednaston, on the main Derby-Ashbourne road, Mr. Daniels' Jaguar was involved in a head-on collision with another Jaguar being driven in the opposite direction towards Derby by Mr. Arthur Jones (54), of Nab Hill Cottage, Leek.

A lorry travelling towards Ashbourne was in collision with one of the cars.

It was driven by Mr. A. A. Smith, of 42 Park Lane, Donington, near Spalding, Lincs., who was not hurt.

Front wings of the two cars were completely shattered.

It so happened that an ambulance was coming along the road shortly after the crash and it took the injured men—all four in the cars were hurt—to the Derbyshire Royal Infirmary.

Late on Thursday afternoon Mr. Daniels died, but the following day the condition of Mr. Townsend and Mr. Nelson, who were with him, was stated to be "comfortable."

Mr. Jones, driver of the other Jaguar, was also reported to be "comfortable" in hospital the day after the accident.

Mr. Townsend, who was found to be suffering from a broken jaw and a broken leg, and Mr. Nelson, who had severe facial lacerations and head

It was felt by the Council that the purchasing of the higher priced bins by the County Council was a waste of ratepayers' money, and that the price was "ridiculous."

The clerk reported that the County Council had approved the suggestion that Edge should be a separate ward, with its own councillor. This brings the total wards in the parish to four, the others being Painswick, Sheepscombe and Slad.

In response to a request from the Parish Council, the Bristol Omnibus Company have instituted a service from Gloucester to Painswick at 6 p.m., returning at 6.30. The new service took effect from January 6.

NEW SHELTER

A new 'bus shelter is to be erected on the triangle of grass at the junction of the Cheltenham and Sheepscombe roads. The work will be undertaken by Messrs. Burdocks and the price, after a grant has been received, will be £136.

The Post Office reported that a new telephone kiosk, in Cotswold type grey with red glazing bars, is to be erected in New Street.

Estimates for the forthcoming financial year were read, and it was decided to precept for a 2d. rate.

New House For Police Superintendent

The County Council has given approval to a new lease being entered into incorporating increased rents in respect of eight houses, occupied by the police, and rented from Stroud U.D.C. This action has been taken following the recent increase in the rents of Council houses in the Stroud urban area.

"Greystones," Cainscross Road, Stroud, has been purchased to provide accommodation for the Stroud Police Superintendent. This is in order that arrangements can be made for the Superintendent's present accommodation to be converted into an extension of the Police Club.

The county council's finance committee have authorised the carrying out of repairs and redecorations required at the premises, including the installation of an electric cooker and wash boiler. Estimated cost of the work is £290.

Uneasiness In Local Industry

THE New Year has opened with a sense of slight uneasiness in local industry. Enquiries revealed that while firms still have full order books, some are cutting down on overtime.

Mr. T. P. Dyson-Hughes, managing director of Hoffmann's, Stonehouse, said that although his firm was cutting down on overtime, he wanted more labour, particularly skilled labour. Hoffmann's, he went on, had been working a good deal of overtime, and cuts may be only temporary.

At Messrs. Strachan and Co., Ltd., the order book is full and would remain that way as far as he could see, said Mr. W. R. Acklam, a director. The mill had a full complement of workers and the company was employing as many people as ever in the past.

But he added: "We are not taking any more on." There had been many applications for jobs, particularly from Jamacians, which had been refused.

The policy of taking on a few school-leavers at the end of each day, when the Players produced "Mansfield Park."

There was an attendance of 26 at the meeting of Bisleby Parochial Church Council held at Eastcombe last week when it was announced that Major E. Sotham would be unable to continue as Vicar's warden owing to ill-health.

Mr. G. W. Powell, chairman of Stroud Rural District Council presided at the meeting of the Cheltenham Local Committee of the South Western Gas Consultative Council on Friday, when he paid tribute to the late Alderman H. T. Bush, who was chairman of the committee at the time of his death.

Inside stonework of the new St. George's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Southwark, which is nearing completion and is due to be reopened on July 4, is in biscuit-coloured Painswick stone. The Cathedral was the only one in the Home Counties destroyed by fire in the blitz.

The infant daughter of the Rev. T. F. and the Hon. Mrs. Taylor was christened on Saturday at Chalford Church. The Archdeacon of Gloucester officiated and the child was named Helen Mary. The godparents are Dr. K. M. Briggs, the Hon. Mrs. N. P. Piercy and the Rev. Kenneth Jarvis, for whom Lord Piercy stood proxy.

A New Year's message to the Royal Family, in the form of a short poem entitled "In the Fullness of Time," was forwarded to Buckingham Palace by Mr. Basil H. Hyett, of 3 Elm Terrace, Foxmoor Lane, Ebley. He has received an acknowledgement from the Queen's Private Secretary.

Aston Down Party

Seventy-four children between the ages of four and eight years were the guests of the 20 M.U. Welfare Department, Aston Down, at a party in the Station canteen on Saturday afternoon. There was a film show, magic by a magician and then tea. Afterwards Father Christmas came with a present for each little guest.

Older children of 20 M.U. employees are being taken to a pantomime tomorrow (Saturday).

term, to learn the cloth trade, would be continued.

Although overtime has been cut from three nights a week to two at Messrs. Geo. Waller & Son, Ltd., of Phoenix Ironworks, Thrupp, the managing director, Mr. Wilkinson, said the position was in no way serious. There was no question of putting anyone off, and there were, in fact, certain vacancies on the staff. The overtime cut may only be temporary.

He admitted, however, that the order book was not as full as it was two years ago, but there was no cause for concern.

OPTIMISM

Most optimistic report came from Mr. A. Traill Ross, of Messrs. Newman, Hender, of Woodchester, who said that a great change had taken place in the worker's outlook. People were not changing their jobs so much and were staying in one place.

There were always vacancies for skilled men.

Overtime remained fairly static and there was no cause for concern.

EDUCATION TO £6,817,130

ing to £503,045 could be deducted. There remained to be borne by ratepayers £2,318,150. This was an increase in net rateable expenditure of £189,000 (the equivalent of a 9d. rate) over the current year's net revised estimate of £2,129,095.

WAGES AND SALARIES

"A large chunk of the expenditure," he said, "is tied up in wages and salaries, over which we have very little control. The increase is the result of a national award—there is a 45 per cent increase, very nearly half, and of the total expenditure 54 per cent is in respect of wages and salaries."

The increase was not, of course, due only to higher rates of pay. Next year there would be a large number of extra teachers (if they could get them) functioning in the country. There would be 1,400 more children in the county's schools and 86 more teachers.

They were also opening, or hoped to open, six or seven new schools in the county next year.

The increase in next year's figures for loan charges was no less than 17 per cent. "Add that 17 to the 45 per cent due to salary increases," said Major Birchall, "and you have accounted for 62 per cent of our increased expenditure."

The national "cost per pupil" figures for 1955-56 showed the county to be just below the national average, so it could be said that they were providing something like a first-class education service without spending more.

ORDER FOR HOFFMANN'S

A LOCAL firm which is already benefitting from the £60 million order for the new Vickers V.C.10 jet air liner to be developed for British Overseas Airways Corporation, is Hoffmann's of Stonehouse.

Mr. T. P. Dyson-Hughes, managing director, said on Wednesday that almost entirely the whole of the bearings to be used in the four Rolls Royce Conway engines to be fitted to the new airliners, would be made

Mr. J. L. Daniels' Full And Active Life

A MAN OF STRONG FAITH

THE Daniels family of Stringers Court, Rodborough, Stroud, has long been honoured in the Stroud district, and much farther afield, for the enterprise and drive displayed in the industrial matters and for the energy and devotion given to religious and social causes.

Mr. J. Lionel Daniels, whose tragic death (the facts of which are reported on our front page) is so universally mourned, was no exception to this. He followed in every way the admirable example set by his late father, Mr. F. L. Daniels, whose younger son he was, but he also revealed special qualities of his own.

These were an immense enthusiasm and energy for anything to which he set his mind and heart. Whatever Lionel Daniels had to do with was soon humming with activity. No matter how innumerable his interests whether industrial, religious, or social he managed to find time for them all.

NOTHING TOO SMALL

It was surprising how he remembered small things and was able to devote his ability to matters which, to many men of his position and importance, would have escaped attention.

One example was the time he devoted to the preparation of the annual handbook of the Gloucestershire Boy Scouts Association. When the time came for the proofs to be drawn up and corrected he would give several invaluable hours to the task, going through the book page by page. This was typical of him.

He was educated at Wycliffe College and always retained his interest in the school being one of the council of governors and a generous friend in many ways. When the new laboratory block, opened by Dr. Bronowski a year or two ago, was being equipped, Mr. Daniels' firm came forward with some particularly valuable items.

From Wycliffe he went on to Birmingham University where he obtained his degree of Bachelor of Science.

Later he was elected a Member of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers and became chairman of the Western section.

He joined the family business at Lightpill Ironworks as a young man and soon made his presence felt concern and is operated as a private limited company. From time to time Mr. Daniels and his brother Eric made it known that, as far as it lay within their capacity, they intended to keep it as a private company.

Mr. Lionel Daniels was often first on the premises in the morning. Workers making their way to the shops would see him in his room at one end of the new office block, busily engaged in using a dictaphone which would be fully charged for the typists to begin work when they arrived later.

Inspired by Mr. Daniels' never-ceasing search for perfection, constant modernisation has been the rule at Lightpill, and few local firms have given such attention to work study.

This was a matter to which he devoted his keenest interest and he took an active part in the formation of the Work Study School at Bristol in Association with the Engineering and Allied Employers West of England Association.

COWLEY MANOR CONFERENCES

For nine successive years he and the people of his firm have met in week-end conference at Cowley Manor to think about and discuss matters of mutual concern to them all. The tenth conference of the series has been planned for next month.

Joint consultation in industry was something in which Mr. Daniels believed very strongly. He joined in the deliberations of the Joint Consultative and Advisory Committee.

Productivity in every aspect was always under the closest scrutiny and he gave full support as a member to the North Gloucestershire Industrial Educational Council.

That, in brief, gives some idea of his business life. There was not another local industrialist as well-known to the public at large and the impress of his personality was felt in many directions.

Outside his work he found time and energy for many causes, and particularly did he strive to forward the interests of young people and of education.

He served on the Gloucestershire Education Committee and was a governor of Stroud Technical College and, in passing, it should be said that the apprenticeship scheme at his own firm was such as to set an example to many other and often larger concerns.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

He was a founder and, for the past four years, chairman of the Stroud and District Youth Service Committee but it is perhaps true to say that the organisation nearest his heart, as far as youth was concerned, was the Boy Scout Movement.

He and his brother, Mr. F. W. (Eric) Daniels, were mainly responsible for starting the first Wolf Cub pack in the Stroud district, and as has already been mentioned, he was secretary of the Gloucestershire Boy Scouts Association at the time of his death.

At Whitsuntide, at a great gathering of Scouts on Cranham Common

CROWDS AT MEMORIAL SERVICE

"THIS great congregation joined invisibly by another congregation equal in size and the many many more who we are representing, makes an eloquent tribute to Lionel Daniels beyond what any one of us can say."

This comment, made by the Rev. Howard S. Stanley, Secretary of the Congregational Union of England and Wales, in Rodborough Tabernacle, on Wednesday afternoon, epitomises the widespread sense of loss felt by the sudden and tragic death of Mr. J. Lionel Daniels, head of the family engineering business at Lightpill, and invaluable supporter of innumerable good causes, both religious and social.

It was a memorial service to Mr. Daniels whose death in a road accident in Derbyshire last Friday, is reported in another column, and followed the private cremation which took place at Cheltenham the day before.

HELD HIGH OFFICE

Mr. Daniels held high office in the Congregational Church, being co-treasurer of its national organisation, and the presence of the Moderator for the Western Province (Rev. W. J. Coggan) and of the Rev. Howard Stanley at the memorial service, was a testimony to the immense regard for Mr. Daniels within the denomination. Many representatives of the Church of England and other denominations were also present in acknowledgement of Mr. Daniels' support for religious causes other than those of his own church.

The works at Lightpill were closed and long before the time of the service people were streaming from every direction to the Tabernacle, special arrangements having been made by the police and motoring organisations to handle the traffic.

The Moderator conducted the service and seated on the rostrum were the Rev. L. S. Squires (minister at Rodborough Tabernacle), Dr. W. J. Shergold (immediate past minister), the Rev. G. H. K. Chick (secretary, Cheltenham and Gloucester District of the Congregational Union), the Rev. K. F. Rogers (rector of Rodborough), and the Rev. A. F. Maltin (vicar of Stroud).

Every seat in the church was filled when the service began and arrangements had been made, by means of public address apparatus, to convey the proceedings to others assembled in the schoolrooms and little chapel.

SCOUT FLAGS

As the service began the flags of the 1st Rodborough Boy Scouts and of the Wycliffe College Scouts were carried to the rostrum and placed near the pulpit.

The full choir was in attendance and Mr. J. C. Watson was at the organ. First came the singing of the hymn "Dear Lord and Father of mankind," followed by the reading of Psalm 23, and passages from the Gospels and Revelation, by the Moderator.

The hymn "Awake, our souls; away our fears" followed.

"To be fair to the real greatness of our friend first one and then another should speak of the way in which he won the respect and admiration in the many fields of service in which he took a lively interest and so great and active a part" said Mr. Stanley.

He judged industry, citizenship, education, Rotary and church as the main concerns outside Mr. Daniels' own family. "For the sake of these he gave himself without stint" he said. Once their friend was convinced of the real importance of something needing to be done then there was nothing lacking in diligence and devotion.

"He has gone from us too soon, but he filled each day and each year with so much that we are not here to think of what he might have done, had he been spared to us longer" said Mr. Stanley. "We can be content with the work he had done and the things he had accomplished which will remain among us and be an enrichment in our lives always."

LOVE OF THE CHURCH

denome
rief era-his osity
ave ame lives ties
We
as and the on and all aith

ted the field ers'
ent
lay unt referred to... Daniels' death and a short silence was observed.

LOVE OF THE DRAMA

He was the principal driving force behind the appeal made by the Cotswold Players to provide themselves with a new Playhouse and his efforts for the Players were honoured recently when he was made their president. He also liked to "walk the boards" himself on occasion and took some part in the productions of the Rodborough Tabernacle Players.

Widely travelled, he was very conscious of the need for better relationships between nation and nation and did what he could to help. He and his wife, Dr. Helen Daniels, pioneered exchange visits between English and German youth parties after the war and these have been a regular feature of each summer in Stroud for some years.

On two occasions he and Dr. Daniels acted as leaders of the Stroud groups of youths and girls which visited the little town of Duderstadt in Lower Saxony, only a mile or two from the actual "Iron Curtain".

He was a constant visitor to youth organisations in many places.

In 1953 he accepted an invitation to become a member of the West Regional Advisory Council for Broadcasting and went "on the air" on several occasions himself. What is more, several important broadcasts have taken place from the canteen at Lightpill Ironworks, including one of the popular "Any Questions?" series.

ROTARY CONTACTS

As a member of Stroud Rotary Club Mr. Daniels found yet another means of making international contacts. Often he would come back from a business trip abroad with yet another pennant from an overseas Rotary Club to add to the growing strings of flags to be seen at weekly luncheons.

His life, as will be seen, seemed almost a constant whirl of activity, but there were times when he was able to indulge his principal hobby of gardening at his Watledge home.

He met his wife at a gathering of the Student Christian Movement, while both were undergraduates at Birmingham University, and they were married in 1932.

Mrs. Daniels is a doctor of medicine but does not now practice and devotes an immense amount of time to social and public work.

She is the present chairman of Nailsworth Urban District Council.

importance, would have escaped attention.

One example was the time he devoted to the preparation of the annual handbook of the Gloucestershire Boy Scouts Association. When the time came for the proofs to be drawn up and corrected he would give several invaluable hours to the task, going through the book page by page. This was typical of him.

He was educated at Wycliffe College and always retained his interest in the school being one of the council of governors and a generous friend in many ways. When the new laboratory block, opened by Dr. Bronowski a year or two ago, was being equipped, Mr. Daniels' firm came forward with some particularly valuable items.

From Wycliffe he went on to Birmingham University where he obtained his degree of Bachelor of Science.

Later he was elected a Member of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers and became chairman of the Western section.

He joined the family business at Lightpill Ironworks as a young man and soon made his presence felt.

AROUND THE WORLD

He travelled widely in the firm's interests—by road, by rail, by sea and by air. Few local men have moved about the world so much by air as Mr. Daniels and it is only a matter of a few years since he circumnavigated the globe by this means in the course of a business trip to the Antipodes.

He could have written a book on his flying experiences and his intimate knowledge of air lines was always worthy of consultation.

Atlantic crossings were frequent and he knew the United States from coast to coast. He found many friends there, not only in business and financial circles, but also amongst the religious bodies in which he was interested.

During the 1930's, while with an engineering works in Edinburgh, he heard that his father was ill and that he was needed in Stroud. He returned at once and there followed a period of intense activity at a time when the engineering industry generally was very much in the doldrums.

PROCESS OF EXPANSION

Conditions of slump prevailed in engineering all over the country and Lightpill Ironworks was no exception. Thanks to the efforts of the young Mr. Daniels there was soon a change for the better. The process of expansion and improvement has gone on ever since.

Today the employees of the firm number 600. When Mr. Lionel Daniels joined the firm the total was 135.

He became a member of the board and later was made joint managing director with his father. Following the death of Mr. Fred Daniels in March, 1950, he was sole managing director and became the chairman of the board after the death of his uncle, Mr. John S. Daniels, a few years ago.

The firm has always been a family business and the term "family business" has been planned for next month.

Joint consultation in industry was something in which Mr. Daniels believed very strongly. He joined in the deliberations of the Joint Consultative and Advisory Committee.

Productivity in every aspect was always under the closest scrutiny and he gave full support as a member to the North Gloucestershire Industrial Educational Council.

That, in brief, gives some idea of his business life. There was not another local industrialist as well-known to the public at large and the impress of his personality was felt in many directions.

Outside his work he found time and energy for many causes, and particularly did he strive to forward the interests of young people and of education.

He served on the Gloucestershire Education Committee and was a governor of Stroud Technical College and, in passing, it should be said that the apprenticeship scheme at his own firm was such as to set an example to many other and often larger concerns.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

He was a founder and, for the past four years, chairman of the Stroud and District Youth Service Committee but it is perhaps true to say that the organisation nearest his heart, as far as youth was concerned, was the Boy Scout Movement.

He and his brother, Mr. F. W. (Eric) Daniels, were mainly responsible for starting the first Wolf Cub pack in the Stroud district, and as has already been mentioned, he was secretary of the Gloucestershire Boy Scouts Association at the time of his death.

At Whitsuntide, at a great gathering of Scouts on Cranham Common to honour the centenary of Lord Baden-Powell, he was presented with a "Silver Acorn", one of the high honours of the movement, the insignia being placed round his neck by the Duke of Beaufort, Lord Lieutenant of Gloucestershire.

His religious work and particularly that for the Congregational Church with which he and his family have been so long associated at Rodborough Tabernacle, had a bearing on all he did.

At the Tabernacle he held various offices including that of Church Secretary and he was a member of the diaconate, but his work for Congregationalism went far beyond the confines of the immediate locality. This was recognised when he was appointed co-treasurer of the Congregational Union of England and Wales.

Five years ago he was elected chairman of the Congregational Union's total Financial Operation, an organisation which took the place of the Congregational Home Churches Fund.

LAY PREACHING

But, and this was once again in keeping with his character, his work for big causes did not overshadow his interest in smaller ones. He was always willing to help the small village churches and gave much time to lay-preaching.

His untimely death will be felt particularly at the Brockworth Congregational Church because he had taken the greatest interest in recent developments there, and friends have been asked this week to send donations in lieu of flowers to the Brockworth Church, "a cause dear to his heart".

A past chairman of the Gloucestershire and Herefordshire Congregational Union, Mr. Daniels was also chairman of the Tetbury, Didmarton and Hawkesbury Upton group of Congregational Churches a position he had occupied for eight years.

pioneer exchange visits between English and German youth parties after the war and these have been a regular feature of each summer in Stroud for some years.

On two occasions he and Dr. Daniels acted as leaders of the Stroud groups of youths and girls which visited the little town of Duderstadt in Lower Saxony, only a mile or two from the actual "Iron Curtain".

He was a constant visitor to youth organisations in many places.

In 1953 he accepted an invitation to become a member of the West Regional Advisory Council for Broadcasting and went "on the air" on several occasions himself. What is more, several important broadcasts have taken place from the canteen at Lightpill Ironworks, including one of the popular "Any Questions?" series.

ROTARY CONTACTS

As a member of Stroud Rotary Club Mr. Daniels found yet another means of making international contacts. Often he would come back from a business trip abroad with yet another pennant from an overseas Rotary Club to add to the growing strings of flags to be seen at weekly luncheons.

His life, as will be seen, seemed almost a constant whirl of activity, but there were times when he was able to indulge his principal hobby of gardening at his Watledge home.

He met his wife at a gathering of the Student Christian Movement, while both were undergraduates at Birmingham University, and they were married in 1932.

Mrs. Daniels is a doctor of medicine but does not now practice and devotes an immense amount of time to social and public work.

She is the present chairman of Nailsworth Urban District Council.

There are also four sons and a daughter.

(Continued from Page 1)

INQUEST OPENS

After hearing evidence of identification, the Derby Borough Coroner (Mr. R. J. B. Cleaver), on Friday adjourned a date to be fixed the inquest of Mr. Daniels.

Evidence of identification was given by Dr. Marjorie Helen Daniels, who said that her husband was in his usual health when he left home on the Wednesday morning to drive to Huddersfield. After being informed that he had met with an accident, she identified his body in the Derbyshire Royal Infirmary.

Medical evidence showed that death was due to a ruptured abdominal aorta.

CHELtenham CREMATION

Cremation took place at Cheltenham on Tuesday morning, when the Rev. Lawrence Squires, minister at Rodborough Tabernacle officiated. The service was attended by members of Mr. Daniels' family and the directors of Messrs. T. H. and J. Daniels, Ltd.

TABERNACLE TRIBUTE

Reference was made at the morning service at Rodborough Tabernacle on Sunday to the death of the church secretary, Mr. J. L. Daniels. The minister, the Rev. L. S. Squires, led the congregation in prayers of thanksgiving and for help and comfort for the bereaved.

The sermon was based on the words "Father Glorify Thy Name." In Mr. Daniels, said the minister, the church had an example of how everyone might well glorify God's holy name throughout life.

LOSS TO RELIGIOUS LIFE

Both at matins and evensong in Stroud Parish Church, on Sunday, the vicar (Rev. A. F. Maltin) spoke in moving terms of the death of Mr. Daniels and stressed what a loss he would be to the religious life of the town and district.

The Moderator conducted the service and seated on the rostrum were the Rev. L. S. Squires (minister at Rodborough Tabernacle), Dr. W. J. Shergold (immediate past minister), the Rev. G. H. K. Chick (secretary, Cheltenham and Gloucester District of the Congregational Union), the Rev. K. F. Rogers (rector of Rodborough), and the Rev. A. F. Maltin (vicar of Stroud).

Every seat in the church was filled when the service began and arrangements had been made, by means of public address apparatus, to convey the proceedings to others assembled in the schoolrooms and little chapel.

SCOUT FLAGS

As the service began the flags of the 1st Rodborough Boy Scouts and of the Wycliffe College Scouts were carried to the rostrum and placed near the pulpit.

The full choir was in attendance and Mr. J. C. Watson was at the organ. First came the singing of the hymn "Dear Lord and Father of mankind," followed by the reading of Psalm 23, and passages from the Gospels and Revelation, by the Moderator.

The hymn "Awake, our souls; away our fears" followed.

"To be fair to the real greatness of our friend first one and then another should speak of the way in which he won the respect and admiration in the many fields of service in which he took a lively interest and so great and active a part" said Mr. Stanley.

He judged industry, citizenship, education, Rotary and church as the main concerns outside Mr. Daniels' own family. "For the sake of these he gave himself without stint" he said. Once his friend was convinced of the real importance of something needing to be done then there was nothing lacking in diligence and devotion.

"He has gone from us too soon, but he filled each day and each year with so much that we are not here to think of what he might have done, had he been spared to us longer" said Mr. Stanley. "We can be content with the work he had done and the things he had accomplished which will remain among us and be an enrichment in our lives always."

LOVE OF THE CHURCH

Mr. Stanley spoke at some length of Mr. Daniels' outstanding contribution to the work of the Congregational Church, and declared, "I believe that those who saw him most often in other fields recognised that the things that gained him respect and admiration in these other fields derived from his great love of the church and his devotion to the Lord of the Church. He was not slothful in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord that was the pattern of it."

"This church and the churches in this county never had reason to doubt Lionel Daniels' dedication of spirit" said Mr. Stanley. He stressed in particular his abiding interest in and active support for the smaller churches.

Of his work as co-treasurer of the Congregational Union, Mr. Stanley said, "He had a refreshingly unusual attitude towards money. Money was only to be valued in so far as it got more Christian work done."

"He was a leader in the right sense. He knew that he was a leader and he knew that he could give the cause the powers which leadership in the church demands."

"He was to a remarkable degree unselfish, thinking of others much more than himself; and he was humble in his sense of dependence upon the goodness of God."

Concluding, Mr. Stanley said, "We thank God upon our remembrance of him, and these memories will remain as benedictions and inspirations for us as long as we ourselves shall live."

The service ended with the hymn "For all the Saints who from their labour rest," and the Benediction, given by the Moderator.

FAMILY MOURNERS

Members of the family who attended were Mrs. J. Lionel Daniels (widow), Mr. and Mrs. John A. Daniels (son and daughter-in-law), Messrs. David, Peter and Philip Daniels (sons), Miss Ruth Daniels (daughter), Mrs. Fred L. Daniels (mother), Mr. F. W. Daniels (brother), Miss Betty Daniels (sister), Mr. and Mrs. Hitchon (brother-in-law and sister), Mr. J. Hitchon (nephew), Miss Edith Daniels (aunt), Mr. and Mrs. Albon (brother and sister-in-law), Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Paechter, Mrs. E. Fearnley, Mr. R. Fearnley, Mrs. E. Mathewman, Mr. E. Kitchen, Mr. and Mrs. P. Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. C. Harlow, Miss F. Davis, Mrs. B. M. Blackwell, Mr. G. Blackwell (also rep. Mrs. G. Blackwell), Miss M. A. Backwell, Miss G. Palant, and Mrs. M. Gillman.

Directors of Messrs. T. H. and J. Daniels Ltd., and their wives, present were J.

A. Shaw (The A Ltd.), Mr. R. H. diner and Sons, Mr. S. W. Sn Co. Ltd., Mr. W. E. A. Chamberla Avalon Leatherbo of Board Makers J. A. P. Lovric Ltd), the Rev. District of the C gregational Union Sims), Mr. J. B. Ltd., also rep ch British Plastics I Watson (Gloster Armstrong Sid Mr. R. A. Davi gational Church Society).

Mr. L. Hart Club), Mr. J. M Large (Stroud) F. S. Howell (E Ltd), Mr. H. T School and the Mr. P. E. Arlid Ltd.), Mr. G. fuges Ltd.), M Plastics Divisi Plastics Indus Mr. G. F. K Felce Hoists I Industrial Pl Clarke (B.I.P. I. Orchard (K. Lickfold N. C. Lake Co. Ltd.), N Technical Co Mr. G. W Mills Co. Lt (Charles Wac Bird (E. J. S. Franklin Church), Mr. (Looc Congr wall Congreg C. Little, M D. J. Harris

Mr. B. F Union), Mr. Union Lay Severn Valle Blake and M

Because he his for child Messrs. J was carri day. In has alway Father Ch

Congregatio Peters (Stro R. S. Gro Stroud Rot and Mr. I and Co. I Rotary Clu Mr. F. I Mr. H. E. and Mr. F. son (Gyde Hough (S Railways), Mr. G. Payne), M Mr. A. Charlesw (Home Mr. D. cision F

Mr. Major Mr. R. (Wyclif (Counc and M

Mr. Engin W.E.A W. A. ner a lam (W. J. Chure Chap Strou Mr. Mr. and C. (E.) M rsion (Bed Chu Bist (M. (Ne J. En (Br Mr W an