

JUNE 89.

Proud half century

ENGINEERS in Gloucestershire last month celebrated 50 years of producing machinery for the plastics industry.

The Cumberland division of John Brown Plastics Machinery Ltd., based in Stroud, are now looking forward to their next half century.

UK manager Martin Knapton said: "Fifty years is a very long time in an industry as young as plastics processing and is a reminder of the unrivalled experience Cumberland has."

Cumberland specialises in reducing scrap plastic into a reprocessible form by producing a range of granulators.

Today they conduct their UK and European sales from their Stroud office as well as the service and spares operation.

Mr. Knapton said: "Cumberland's policy is based on a continual striving to improve standards of performance, reliability and quietness in all our product ranges.
