

■ The buy-out team (left to right) John Webb, Works Director, Simon Brown, Sales and Marketing Director and David Butler, Managing Director

Team's ambitious plan ^{5.1.91}

~~THE management team which bought out Stroud printers Copeland Chatterton~~ now plan to expand the range of products.

Company chiefs propose to spend £500,000 on new computerised equipment for their business at Dudridge.

The money will be going on machinery to enable the continuous stationery producers to complete quality Mailshots

by Jo Barber

for banks, building societies and local authorities.

Company managing director David Butler said the new management team was optimistic for Cope-Chat's future despite the present depressing economic climate.

The company employs just under 200 people and has plenty of space for growth at its existing site, he said.