

"OUR VILLAGE" SERIES

A VENING

FROM THE EARLY BRITONS TO A MAN WHO LOOKED AHEAD ★ FROM A PIRATE TO AN 86 YEAR OLD FOLLOWER OF HOUNDS — A VILLAGE WITH A HISTORY

FUTURE historians continuing the centuries-old story of Avening will probably never think of mentioning "Sam" Smith. Yet, in his own way, he had as much to do with the development of the village as anyone in recent years. Samuel Smith loved Avening, and with his interest and knowledge of village affairs, in those days—a forest, by the all over Wales competed.

He lived in Rectory Lane supplying houses join in the festivities that, the record Bryges later turned to piracy, crowns. This may be explained by the fact that the B.B.C. has shown interest in formed and settled down at this unusual custom during the year 1615.

The village's four public houses join in the festivities that, the record Bryges later turned to piracy, crowns. This may be explained by the fact that the B.B.C. has shown interest in formed and settled down at this unusual custom during the year 1615.

OLDEST LICENSEE.

The oldest licensee in the village is Mrs. A. M. Cox, of the Nag's Head Inn. She could not remember a throng like this last year in all her 23 years' experience. Mr. and Mrs. F. Williams, at The Cross Inn, transferred to the Convent of Caen.

It was the scene of great brutalities during the Cromwellian Wars. "Bloody Assizes" were held there and three prisoners were entertained against him".

The Feasts are now held at the Nag's Head Inn (Mr. and Mrs. F. Howley). The usage from a walnut tree.

Musgrove, noted for his coursing and turn-outs in the show-ring, lived at the Court. Its present owner, Mr. F. W. Tinnell, has one of the finest collections in the district.

It was the scene of great brutalities during the Cromwellian Wars. "Bloody Assizes" were held there and three prisoners were entertained against him".

The Feasts are now held at the Nag's Head Inn (Mr. and Mrs. F. Howley). The usage from a walnut tree.

Mr. Tilling, Mr. George Edmunds, Mrs. S. F. Humphries and Mrs. Louisa Coates can follow them for miles across fields and through woods—on foot.

Mr. Hopes cannot relate a lot about Avening itself, because for a great deal of his life he lived in Wales, returning "at an age when nobody wants you". He is an agricultural worker at heart, but little persuasion will make him admit that he can turn his hand to anything. He recalls that some 50 years ago he won a ploughing match in Monmouthshire three years running in which teams from all over Wales competed.

Now, back in the village of his birth he owns his own public cottage, but more than respect of every unlike Henry Bryges, who seems to have been a more wayward character.

The village's four public houses join in the festivities that, the record Bryges later turned to piracy, crowns. This may be explained by the fact that the B.B.C. has shown interest in formed and settled down at this unusual custom during the year 1615.

An alabaster figure of Bryges kneeling in prayer forms the most remarkable monument in them very long and dissolve. A second one at the Tetbury entrance to Avening depicts Matilda's coat of arms.

ONE OF FIRST SHOPS

Some time great uneasiness and of Britain, in 1951. It is a continuation of the trouble. They were many of relief carving of the church. A second one at the Tetbury entrance to Avening depicts Matilda's coat of arms.

Long before Mrs. Coates opened her business the cloth trade provided the greater part of the livelihood for the valley. Five mills are mentioned in the Domesday Book, only two remaining to-day—Lofords and

All this is ancient history. For a more up-to-date history of the village and its surroundings, see the main High Street of the village and it was here that Mrs. Louisa Coates opened one of the first shops. It is still there to-day, though Mrs. Coates is in bed after a fall she had a little while back. Long before Mrs. Coates opened her business the cloth trade provided the greater part of the livelihood for the valley. Five mills are mentioned in the Domesday Book, only two remaining to-day—Lofords and

the top of Rowcroft. The village itself is rich in houses join in the festivities that, the record Bryges later turned to piracy, crowns. This may be explained by the fact that the B.B.C. has shown interest in formed and settled down at this unusual custom during the year 1615.

Mr. Hopes cannot relate a lot about Avening itself, because for a great deal of his life he lived in Wales, returning "at an age when nobody wants you". He is an agricultural worker at heart, but little persuasion will make him admit that he can turn his hand to anything. He recalls that some 50 years ago he won a ploughing match in Monmouthshire three years running in which teams from all over Wales competed.

Now, back in the village of his birth he owns his own public cottage, but more than respect of every unlike Henry Bryges, who seems to have been a more wayward character.

The village's four public houses join in the festivities that, the record Bryges later turned to piracy, crowns. This may be explained by the fact that the B.B.C. has shown interest in formed and settled down at this unusual custom during the year 1615.

An alabaster figure of Bryges kneeling in prayer forms the most remarkable monument in them very long and dissolve. A second one at the Tetbury entrance to Avening depicts Matilda's coat of arms.

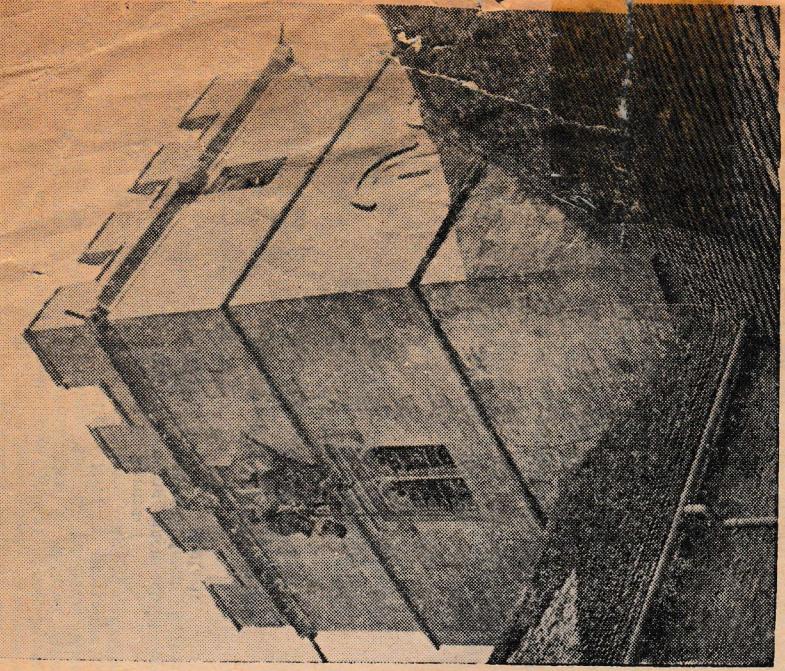

ONE OF FIRST SHOPS

Some time great uneasiness and of Britain, in 1951. It is a continuation of the trouble. They were many of relief carving of the church. A second one at the Tetbury entrance to Avening depicts Matilda's coat of arms.

Long before Mrs. Coates opened her business the cloth trade provided the greater part of the livelihood for the valley. Five mills are mentioned in the Domesday Book, only two remaining to-day—Lofords and

All this is ancient history. For a more up-to-date history of the village and its surroundings, see the main High Street of the village and it was here that Mrs. Louisa Coates opened one of the first shops. It is still there to-day, though Mrs. Coates is in bed after a fall she had a little while back. Long before Mrs. Coates opened her business the cloth trade provided the greater part of the livelihood for the valley. Five mills are mentioned in the Domesday Book, only two remaining to-day—Lofords and

the top of Rowcroft. The village itself is rich in

beginning of the Christian era and practised sun and fire worship.

The druids displaced the sun worshippers and it was not until the year 520, under Roman occupation, that all they know of Avening, but, as always, the real character of Christian churches was built when they invaded the garrison more romantic characters like war was the late Lord Lee of Rodmariot. The Danes destroyed the second church, built, but in modern times, of some repute. A former Ernest minister of Agriculture and Munipio, noted for his courses, turned out in the show-ring, lived at the Court. Its present owner, Mr. F. W. Farnell, has one of the finest collections in the district, History books, art collections, and Mrs. Louisa Coates is un-disputed.

PRESENT RECTOR
The present Rector, Canon Cuthbert Cooper, who was instituted in 1948, follows a long line of colourful men who have held the living. It is due largely to his efforts that the ancient Feast has been revived and its association with the Church fully realised. It goes back to the completion of the Church on Holy Cross Day, September 14, 1060, and is, therefore, a dedication festival.

More generally, of course, the district knows it as Pig's Face Day.

The night after the church was consecrated across the way on Pound Hill,

Queen Matilda, wife of William the Conqueror, ordered that a Feast be given for the men who had built it.

The main dish was boat's head.

It had been shot in the forest any day of the week he will unassumingly alone in his own 32 years, then

A widow, Mr. Hopes lives 1. M. Graham, for the past 30 years, when Avenueing severed its connection with Stroud and came under the Teibury R.D.C.

DESERTING AGRICULTURE
A square set man, Mr. Edmunds, declares: "Me and my father paid rent for 65 years, then had to turn round and buy it or be turned out." The only things he relies on, other than his meals, and a young lad calls on his land near their native village, now many are deserting the Rev. S. G. Dudley, a former chaplain to the Forces, it is destined to be merely a curio? Or will visionaries like Samuel Smith, kindle it into a force for the future?

On

He has been a gardener for almost half a century, working for some of that time for the late Mr. Erskine Pollock, who was, when Mr. Edmunds first knew him, a Queen's Counsellor for Victoria.

For over 60 years he has been a bell ringer Hinder.

In recent years the church has become one of the most active in the district.

One of his problems has been being a member of the Conservative Association.

Mr. Edmunds could be described as a typical villager, quiet and hardworking. Avenging people, however, were not always so restrained, as illustrated by the experiences of Dr. George Bull, who was instituted as Rector in 1685 and was subsequently Bishop of St. David's.

We are told that "the people of the parish gave Dr. Bull for Cooper, to mark the Festival ers were also necessary at the Cromwellian Wars. "Bloody tortoise" until he "removed that Mrs. Louisa Coates opened her business, the cloth trade provided the greater part of the livelihood for the valley.

Five mills are mentioned in the Domesday Book, only two remain to-day—Longfords and a corn mill, what is now a corn mill. This mill has a water wheel 25 feet in diameter, one of the largest in the country.

Long before Mrs. Coates

opened her business, the cloth trade provided the greater part of the livelihood for the valley.

Five mills are mentioned in the Domesday Book, only two remain to-day—Longfords and a corn mill, what is now a corn mill. This mill has a water wheel 25 feet in diameter, one of the largest in the country.

All this is ancient history, though there are such prejudices as they had

is still there to-day, though Mrs. Coates is in bed after a fall she had a little while back.

Long before Mrs. Coates

opened her business, the cloth trade provided the greater part of the livelihood for the valley.

Five mills are mentioned in the Domesday Book, only two remain to-day—Longfords and a corn mill, what is now a corn mill. This mill has a water wheel 25 feet in diameter, one of the largest in the country.

All this is ancient history, though there are such prejudices as they had

is still there to-day, though Mrs. Coates is in bed after a fall she had a little while back.

CLERK OF PARISH COUNCIL.

Before the war Mr. F. C.

Coates, a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Mr. Tillings, Mr. George Edmunds, Mrs. Louisa Coates can recall events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.

Before she became a widow, Mrs. S. F. Humphries prime minister to the nation.

Against such a man as an assessor and rate collector for the old Guardians. She received events no less interesting. Bygones, the life of a gardener under the same employer, Mrs. Hopes, now the oldest village, first Lord of the Auntrality, he stands at the top of Rowcroft.